INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the founders of the organization

TRANSPARENCY INTERNATIONAL SLOVENIA - DRUŠTVO INTEGRITETA, Vožarski pot 12, Ljubljana

Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of the organization TRANSPARENCY INTERNATIONAL SLOVENIA - DRUŠTVO INTEGRITETA, Ljubljana, which comprise the balance sheet as at 31st December 2021 and the related profit & loss statement, resume of main accounting principles and other explanatory notes for the year then ended

In our opinion, the attached financial statements present in all material aspects a true and fair view of the financial position of the organization TRANSPARENCY INTERNATIONAL SLOVENIA - DRUŠTVO INTEGRITETA, Ljubljana as at 31st December 2021 for the year then ended in accordance with the Slovene accounting standards.

Basis for our opinion

We have conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (ISAs). Our responsibilities based on these Standards are described in the Report in the paragraph Auditor's Responsibility for Auditing Financial Statements. Pursuant to the Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants issued by the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants (the IESBA Code) and ethical requirements referring to the audit of financial statements in Slovenia, we confirm that we are independent from the audited company and that we have met all other ethical requirements in accordance with these requirements and the IESBA Code.

We believe that the audit evidence obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Other information

The management is responsible for other information.

Our opinion on the financial statements does not refer to other information, for which we do not express any form of assurance.

Our responsibility in relation to the audit of financial statements conducted is to read other information and by doing so determine any material inconsistency of other information with financial statements, legal requirements or our knowledge acquired by auditing or if it can otherwise be identified as a material misstatement. If based on the work performed we discover a material misstatement regarding other information, we have to report about such circumstances. There is nothing with regard to this that we would have to report. On the basis of procedures described above, we report that:

- other information is in all material aspects consistent with the audited financial statements;
- other information is prepared in compliance with applicable laws and regulations; and
- on the basis of the knowledge and understanding of the company and its surroundings acquired during the audit, we have not discovered any material misstatements regarding other information.

Responsibility for financial statements of the management and of the persons in charge of management

The management is responsible for the preparation of financial statements in accordance with the Slovene Accounting Standards and for such internal control as the management deems necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

By preparing the financial statements of the company, the management is responsible for assessing its ability to continue operating on a going-concern basis, disclose the matters related to the operation on a going-concern basis and to perform accounting based on a going-concern assumption, unless the management either intends to liquidate the company or to cease trading, or has no realistic alternative but to do so

The persons in charge of management are responsible for supervising the procedure of financial reporting of the company.

Auditor's responsibility for auditing financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain a reasonable assurance on whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and issue an auditor's report including our opinion. A reasonable assurance is a high degree of assurance, but no guarantee that the audit conducted in accordance with auditing standards will always discover material misstatement if it exists. A misstatement can derive from a fraud or an error and is considered material, if it can be reasonably expected that it, individually or together, would affect the economic decisions of the users adopted based on these financial statements.

While conducting the audit in accordance with auditing standards, we use professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism. We also:

- recognise and assess the risk of material misstatement in financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, develop and perform audit procedures as a response to the assessed risks and obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence providing a basis for our opinion. The risk of not discovering a material misstatement deriving from a fraud is higher than that connected with errors, as a fraud can include secret agreements, counterfeiting, voluntary omission, misinterpretation or avoidance of internal controls;
- perform procedures of verifying and understanding internal controls significant for the audit with the purpose of designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the company's internal controls;
- evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the acceptability of accounting estimates and management's disclosures related to them;
- on the basis of audit evidence obtained on the existence of material uncertainty regarding the events or circumstances questioning the ability of an organisation to continue operating on a going-concern basis, to adopt a decision on the suitability of the going-concern assumption as the accounting basis. If a decision on the existence of material uncertainty is adopted, we are obliged to draw attention to suitable disclosures in financial statements in the auditor's report, or if such disclosures are not suitable, adjust the opinion. Auditor's decisions are based on audit evidence obtained by the date of issue of the auditor's report. However, subsequent events or circumstances can cause an organisation to stop operating on a going-concern basis;
- evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of financial statements including disclosures and whether the financial statements fairly present the transactions and events concerned;

The persons in charge of management are informed among other things about the planned extent and time of the audit and significant audit findings including the deficiencies of internal controls discovered during our audit.
